

Stairways to hell (Historical interventionism as a truly roots of current global economic crisis)

Djogo Marko

University of East Sarajevo

markodjogo@yahoo.com

marko.djogo@ekofis.org

Tamara Starovlah-Djogo

University of East Sarajevo

Economic crisis in Euro- Atlantic economy came in it's fifth year although governments of developed countries have taken all measures that they were using more or less successfully in last 60 years. While governments keep looking for more drastically measures to end the crisis, we believe that the time has come for analyzing this situation from another angle. That angle is integral historical analyses of actual roots of this crisis instead of shallow partial analysis that take place these days.

Keywords: economic crisis, state intervention, free market

JEL classification: E02, E58, E6